The individual ticket holders will receive an email via Eventbrite notifying them of their free-to-them ticket. You can inform your ticket holders that they need to claim their order by clicking the link in that email. We will communicate directly with them and provide all the information they need to access the conference. If they have any questions, they can direct them to events@beyondprof.com.

Ticket holders may attend sessions live on 4 and 11 May, or watch them later. They can do both! All conference sessions will be recorded and made available to stream on-demand via the Beyond the Professoriate website starting 15 May. These videos will be available to stream until 15 June 2019. After that, conference videos will no longer be available to ticket holders.

For full conference information, see the conference website or the program guide, which will be emailed to ticket holders.
